MANAGER'S REVIEW
Market Review

Positive sentiment in the global market is expected to continue as recent data released showed that the rate of slowdown in economic activities in the United States is declining, housing statistics are improving and consumer spending is recovering. This is further supported by the statement by the Chairman of the Federal Reserve, who has said again that the recession in the United States is likely to end this year.

The International Monetary Fund (IMF) recently reduced its economic growth forecast for countries in Asia for 2009. The Japanese economy is expected to contract by 6.2% this year (-0.6% in 2008), whilst growth in Hong Kong and Singapore will be -4.5% and -10% respectively. The IMF believes that it will take up to 1.5 years for investment growth to return to its pre-crisis level in countries like Malaysia, Singapore and South Korea, due to their high trade exposure to advance economies.

In Malaysia, market consensus is expecting interest rates to remain low throughout 2009, with potential for Bank Negara Malaysia to cut interest rates further in 2H 2009. The low interest rate environment will help in the implementation of the stimulus packages to support domestic economic activities.

Manager's Comments

In April 2009, the fund continued to maintain its asset allocation in the three asset classes of PNB REIT, structured products and cash. The NAV of the fund continued to show improvement, increasing by 0.16% month-on-month and 5.11% since the start of the fund.

The positive performance for the month is backed by the structured products portfolio performance, which saw a 0.22% increase in the value of the portfolio in April 2009. The improvement in structured products performance was inline with the continued uptrend in the stock markets globally. The positive sentiment in the stock market was in part due to the release of economic data in the United States that showed the rate of decline in the economy has started to bottom, and signs that the economy in the United States, Germany and Asian countries may be rebounding.

At its latest Monetary Policy Meeting, Bank Negara Malaysia kept the Overnight Policy Rate (OPR) unchanged at 2.0 %. As such, the capital protection component of the structured products continue to be in-the-money as interest rates remain much lower than at the start of investment.
